TORONTO TIDINGS

Mr. Samuel Pugsley and his sister, Miss Susie Pugsley, left on December 31st, for Bridgen, to attend the golden wedding of their sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Smith, who ushered in their fiftieth matrimonial milestone on New Year's Day. Sam and his sister are remaining up that way for a few weeks' visit.

Mr. A. W. Mason was surprised to receive a visit from his niece, whom he had visited in the Far West last August, and she was then Miss Emily Mason, but when she dropped in quietly upon her uncle here with a gentleman, she introduced herself as Mrs. R. W. Scott, having been quietly married on December 19th, to Mr. Scott, of Saskatoon, Sask. They stopped over here to visit their relatives while on their way to spend the winter in Sunny Florida.

Mr. George Bell, who had been working on the Post of Brussels for several months past, has returned to this city and we were glad to welcome him back.

Mr. Henry Whealy recently had the honor of enjoying an aerial flight into the clouds, as well as over the city and bay, at an altitude of nearly a mile.

While strolling around the aviation field at Leaside, he chanced to get into one of the seaplanes and soared with it skyward until it looked like a caterpillar in the heavens, and though the brief flight cost him five bucks, he enjoyed this thrilling experience immensely.

When Sam Pugsley was in Manitoba last month, he never dreamed that his niece, Miss Nellie Alice Betherick, would change her name, but had hardly returned home when he got word that she was now Mrs. William Lintott. The happy couple are living at Gilbert Plains, Man.

Miss Lucy Buchan, who went up to visit her mother, and other relatives in Walkerville for the Yuletide holidays, returned to this city on January 1st, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Alex. Buchan, Sr. As the New Year's opening of the Belleville school did not take place until January 7th, Lucy was able to remain here a few days longer. However, she and her sister, Caroline, along with Miss Norma Smith and Mr. Robert Robertson left to resume their studies at our Alma Mater on January 6th.

The deaf of this city were greatly pleased to have our good friend, Mr. George Bridgen, re-elected as a public school trustee of this city, in the civic elections on New Year's Day. Being the son of our late Superintendent, he takes a warm interest in the deaf, and whenever we want something from the City Council, Mr. Bridgen is always sure to champion our cause. When our church grounds were first at stake, he argued our cause so cleverly and strenuously that the city forefathers gave in. When we applied for a grant last June on behalf of our O. A. D., Mr. Bridgen was most instrumental in helping us get the three hundred dollars grant, and in the absence of Mayor Sam. McBride, Mr. Bridgen opened our convention in the name of the city. The Bridgen family are held very highly in the hearts of the deaf.

In our issue of December 27th, it was stated that Mr. Henry Whealy was now working at Leaside. This report was a little premature, for he is still at his old place near Dufferin Street, but will go to Leaside as soon as the new plant commences operations.

Our Epworth League resumed its usual activities on January 2d, after being in dormancy since December 19th. Mr. Fred Terrell is now our leader, and his address on the meaning and movements of sin that evening was a revelation. He gave out the real reason why the failings and weaknesses in our lives can be traced to negligence and carelessness. Since the change in the weekly routine of our Epworth League, much improvement in the speaking ability of the various leaders is noticeable.

Miss Caroline Brethour has returned from her delightful Yuletide vacation with relatives in Ottawa and Montreal. Being a graduate of the Mackay School of Montreal, it was a great pleasure to her to revisit the scenes of her youth.

Miss Helen A. Middleton returned to this city, on December 29th, from a week's sojourn with her parents at Horning Mills and was a guest at "Mora Glen" until New Year's evening, when she left for Niagara Falls. A little party was given in her honor by Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Roberts, as the last hours of 1928 were passing into the labyrinth of oblivion, and a great time was enjoyed by those present.

That ever-smiling chap, Mr. W. J. Bastone, of Hamilton, came down and took us by surprise on December 30th. He remained here as the guest of Mr. Frank Pierce until the New Year was ushered in and well on its way down the channel of 1929.

Mr. George Wedderburn was one of the many who were lately laid hors du combat by the "Flu," but we are pleased to say he is now up and around again. Our other friends, who were similarly afflicted, including Mrs. J. R. Byrne, are out again.

Mrs. Frank E. Harris, who has been up in Kitchener for several weeks past, was down to her home here during New Year's week, leaving again early in the year for another indefinite stay in the city of her parental home.

We were all pleased to meet our old schoolmate of bygone days, Mrs. Thomas R. Croan, who came up for a week's visit to her sister, Mrs. George Dowker, who lives in this city. Mrs. Croan was formerly Miss Hattie Sager, one of the four deaf Sager sisters of Deseronto. She left for her home in Kendall, on December 31st. These two sisters were interested in our church, which they saw for the first time on December 30th.

Mr. Harry Sloan, of Churchill, was down and smiling in our midst during the New Year's recess. He would be very glad to get a position in this city, especially in the printing line.

Mr. Oscar McPeake has, at time of writing, fallen a victim to the influenza epidemic and was taken to the hospital for treatment. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Peterkin, Mr. Frank Moore, John Buchan and others are also laid up, as these items go off.

Mr. Charles Levi McLaughlin now sports a classy Oldsmobile car that makes his friends, especially the young maidens, meditate in wonder. Charlie is a native of Charlottetown, P. E. I., and graduated from the Halifax School for the Deaf. His many friends down in the Land of Evangeline will be pleased to hear that he is making the grade up this way.

Mr. Asa Forrester gave a good address at our church on December 30th, on resolutions in which we succeeded or failed to keep. Mrs. W. R. Watt rendered the hymn that has stood the ages, "O God, our Help in Ages Past." George Hunter visited our "Alma Mater" during Christmas and had a good time down in Belleville, despite the influenza epidemic.

The Frats held a twenty-five-cent social at their headquarters on January 3d, and though a good time was enjoyed, the attendance was rather slim, due to the inroads of Mr. Influenza, whose influence had many under his sway, but is now losing his grip.

Miss Florence Bagby enjoyed a very pleasant visit of a week with her parents in Burk's Falls at Christmas time.

The usual "Watch Night" that has been a feature here in past years did not materialize this New Year's Eve, because of so much sickness around, but a few small house parties filled in this gap, and one of these that provoked much merriment was given by Mr. and Mrs. Neil A. McGillivray, at their home on Wolverleigh Boulevard, and those who were there had a grand time.

We regret to say that Mrs. William Fairbank, sister of Mr. Frank E. Doyle, who had an operation on her brain some time ago, is not showing any signs of improvement. She suffers a good deal and is confined to her bed nearly all the time.

During the recent Yuletide the platform of our church presented a very beautiful picture, portraying an old time Christmas scene with a wintry tinge in all its environments.

GENERAL GLEANINGS

We understand that Miss Sylvia Caswell, of Niagara Falls, enjoyed her Christmas vacation with relatives and friends in Buffalo.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Moynihan had over a score of friends at their home in Waterloo on New Year's Eve, to ring out the old year and usher in the new. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Williams and Miss Viola Johnston, of Kitchener, and Mr. Lewis C. Patterson, of Milton. They all had a jolly time.

Miss Helen A. Middleton, of Niagara Falls, Miss Gladys M. Atkinson, of Paisley; Mrs. Alice Whealy and Messrs. Charles L. McLaughlin and Fred Crawley, of Toronto, fulfilled one of their New Year's resolutions by sending or giving the writer their subscription for the JOURNAL, thus adding more names to the long list of Canadian readers.

We heard with much regret of the sudden death of Norman, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Lob-singer, of Detroit, who succumbed to an attack of influenza, followed by spinal meningitis, on December 31st.

He was a bright and clever young chap, blooming in his early teens. Just as the old year was corroding into the panoply of oblivion, little Norman was entering into a new life—the space of His eternal love. His parents are Belleville school graduates, his father hailing from Midway, while his mother was formerly Miss Annetta Johnston, of Caledonia, Ont. We sympathize with them in their loss.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Middleton, of Horning Mills, were among the crowd that attended the farm stock sale of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Averall near Cookstown recently. The sale came off pretty well.

Mrs. Beverly Moynihan, of Waterloo, has made such wonderful strides in her beauty culture study, that the owner of the Hodgson Beauty Parlors, in Kitchener, has seen fit to take her on his staff. This is a signal honor for such a young maiden.

Very few are aware that before she first went to the Belleville school, Miss Helen A. Middleton, of Niagara Falls, was for two years a student at St. Hilda's College in Toronto. This preliminary education, coupled with her parental training, accounts for her rapid scholastic career and the high position she holds in the esteem of her many friends. She is clever conversationalist and a genuine sport as well.

Miss Margaret Bowen is now at her home in Cookstown, recuperating from her recent serious illness of the "Flu." She left the Toronto General Hospital on December 31st, and after a stay with relatives in the east end of Toronto, finally went home.

HERBERT W. ROBERTS.

Newark, N. J.

The Newark Hebrew Association of the Deaf, which meets regularly in the afternoon of the first Sunday of the month, held its regular meeting on Sunday afternoon, January 6th, 1929, and after electing new officers for 1929, held a Founder's Party in the evening in the auditorium of the Neighborhood House, and presented the founder of the club, Mrs. Leopold Kraemer, Council of Jewish Women, with a bronze cloisonne vase, as a token of appreciation for her work and devotion to the Newark Hebrew Association of the Deaf.

Music and dancing followed. Refreshments were served. Everybody had a good time. Plans are in contemplation for other affairs, which promise a very active season for 1929. The new officers for 1929 are:— President, Julius Aaron; Vice-President, Albert Balmuth; Secretary, Mrs. S. Eber; Treasurer, Miss Sarah Zanger; Auditors, Sam Eber, Philip Hoenig, Julius Lipkin; Trustees, Mrs. L. Asen, Mrs. L. Hertfeld and Mrs. K. Kraemer, of the Council of Jewish Women.

Fate's Favoritism.

Lady: "Why are you crying?" Boy: "My aunt has fallen down the stairs." Lady: "But she will soon get better."

Boy: "I know, but my little sister saw her fall and I didn't."—(Lustige Koelner Zeitung, Cologne).

SEATTLE

The annual New Year party given by Seattle Division, No. 44, N. F. S. D., brought to the American Legion Hall close to 125 people, which is a capacity crowd here, according to the deaf population. After a noisy greeting to the New Year, most of the merry makers began leaving for their homes around 2 o'clock, but there were quite a few who choose to stay till the first early morning cars began moving.

A mixed up program of dancing, games and stage acts kept the crowd amused until a midnight lunch of chili con carne, sandwiches, salted peanuts, French doughnuts, fruit and coffee was served.

On the stage Mary and Grace, the young daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Bodley, gave pretty dancing acts. In a prize contest for old time dances W. S. Root and Mrs. Victoria Smith showed the crowd they had not forgotten their steps by winning first prizes.

Miss Bertha Seipp took the first prize, Mrs. Albert Lorenz the second, for rolling nuts.

On the men's side John Gerson, of Tacoma, first prize, Joe Kirschbaum, the second.

Three boxes of chocolates were won as door prizes by Mrs. Charles Gilmore, Rex Oliver, of Everett, and Mrs. Ed. Martin.

A fish pond, handled by Messrs. Wainscott and Scanlon and a "soft drink" bar, at which J. M. Lowell sold his own make of root beer, and a "stupendous side show," all did their share of business.

The committee was Chairman W. S. Root, A. W. Wright, Frank Kelly, Oscar Sanders, John Bodley, James Lowell, Russell Wainscott and James Scanlon.

Lynn Palmer came all the way from Lewiston, Idaho, to attend the party and greet friends. He gave out the interesting news that his brother, Lamar, and Miss Pauline Dressel, of Clarkston, Wash., were married last week. The two Palmer boys and Otto Johnne are all working at the same mill in Lewiston. They were formerly employed at the Snoqualmie mill.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Nelson, of Portland, being invited to spend December 29th to January 1st, with Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Root, came over and several friends claimed them for dinners. The Roots gave a small party December 29th, in their honor and serve warm strawberry sandwiches with whipped cream, fruit cake and coffee. It was delicious.

The next night the Bertrams had them with ten others for a big fine supper. Claire Reeves and Frank Kelly helped with the dishes. The party indulged in telling short stories and jokes till it was time to go home.

The Nelsons attended the New Year services at the Lutheran Church of Our Redeemer and remarked that Rev. G. W. Gaertner's sermon was very inspiring.

Mrs. George Riley and daughter, Kathleen, of Victoria, B. C., came to Seattle, December 27th, to visit Mrs. Riley's mother. They were at the New Year party. Mrs. Jack Bertram took Mrs. Riley out visiting the afternoon of New Year's Day in her Studebaker brougham.

Charles W. Golds and Miss Edith Ards were Vancouver, B. C., visitors at the New Year party. Mr. Golds is chairman of the entertainment committee of the coming Western Canada Association convention, and was on the lookout for any pointers that would help in the entertaining line.

Mrs. Albert Lorenz, of Tacoma, visited with her daughter in Cashmere during the holidays. A little baby was trying to say Grandma to Mrs. Lorenz. On her way back she stopped in Seattle and took in the New Year party.

Christmas Day was an attractive event at the Church of Our Redeemer and our minister, Rev. Gaertner, delivered a sermon about the birth of Christ in his interesting way. Mrs. W. S. Root, Mrs. Pauline Gustin and Mrs. Emily Eaton, signed Christmas songs. After the service five dozen boxes of candy and pretty calendars were distributed among the congregation. The artistically decorated Christmas tree was a beauty. John Adams, of Renton, brought it from his home.

W. E. Brown was in Mt. Vernon a few days before Christmas, helping out in one of the barber shops. He made a visit to Anacortes, calling on Mr. and Mrs. Cookman, Mr. and Mrs. Sneve, Mr. and Mrs. Henrich, Mr. and Mrs. Ferwerda and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney, of Spokane, announced the arrival of their first baby girl, the evening of December 24th. Congratulations are being extended to them from their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bertram are to be congratulated upon the success their daughter, Marion, is making at the University of Washington. She was chosen president of the Y. W. C. A. freshmen's commission, made up of some 250 freshmen, and she was selected as one of the all stars of the girls' hockey team. She spent a few days in Hyak at the top of Cascade Mountains during the holidays. She is a lieutenant of the Girls' Scouts.

Bert Haire has just recovered from a bad case of pleurisy.

Not long ago, Miss Maria Skooholt, of Minneapolis, Minn., stopped overnight in Seattle with a sister, and the next day she went on her way to California. She attended the Church of Our Redeemer and was introduced to most of the thirty-five attending. She is an old schoolmate of Mrs. W. S. Root and expects to visit her on her return home.

Six close friends spent the evening of December 8th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Garrison, playing Dutch whist and "500." Chili con carne, sandwiches, Mrs. Garrison's famous whipped cream cake and coffee were served. The guests went out on their large front porch and enjoyed the view of the sound and the lighted boats passing.

The Garrison family is now once more enjoying auto rides, having secured a used Ford roadster.

Mr. and Mrs. True Partridge are moving to their home on E. 73 and 20th N. E. Avenue, this month, several blocks from the Wrights. They traded their old residence in on this fifty six-room house a few feet from the city limits in the north end. We are delighted to have them as our neighbors. Mabel, their eleven-year-old daughter, returned from Spokane, where she was with an aunt since September.

The mother and father of Mrs. Roy Harris spent the all of December pleasantly with the Harris family. They live near Vancouver.

Mrs. Jack Bertram went to Tacoma and brought her sick mother to Seattle, and placed her in a nice comfortable home for elderly people in the Wallingford district, where it will be convenient to visit her often.

Jack Bertram is mentioned by one of the daily papers as amongst the best golfers in Seattle. He is such an ardent golf bug, that it takes a heavier rain than usual to prevent him making a round of the links.

Mrs. Violet Gillis, of Kent, had a surprise birthday party given by several of her young friends a couple weeks ago. She received several nice gifts.

Mrs. W. E. Brown opened her home to her Ballard friends on Sunday before Christmas. It was reported a lovely time passed.

Mrs. Melba Burke, after several months' visit in Seattle, has returned to her home in Spokane. She was given a farewell party by Mr. and Mrs. Claire Reeves at their apartment.

Mrs. Jack Bertram, manager of the Thursday social, presented A. W. Wright a dollar bill for first prize, and Arthur Marlin, a box of candied cherries for booty. The next week, W. S. Root won a large bath towel and Mr. Abrahamson, face cloth. Mr. Wright was in charge.

ST. MATTHEW'S LUTHERAN MISSION FOR THE DEAF.

SERVICES every Sunday at 3 o'clock in the church on South 9th Street, between Driggs Avenue and Roebeling Street, Brooklyn. The church is located near the Plaza of the Williamsburg Bridge.

Meeting of the class at the Parish-House of St. Matthew's Church on 145th and Convent Avenue, every Friday night from 6:30 to 8 P. M. Assembly room on the third floor of Parish House.

The Capital City

Communion services were held at the church of St. Mark's at three o'clock the afternoon of January 6th.

Upon the invitation of Rev. H. L. Tracy, the Reverend Jacob M. Koehler preached. His theme was on "Epiphany." A good-sized congregation attended.

Rev. Koehler came here from New York, where he preached, and he had to cancel his missions to Baltimore, Richmond and other towns, as he received a call to come home to Pittsburgh to be at the bedside of his wife, who is critically ill. He returned to New York that afternoon to meet his daughter and accompany her to Pittsburgh. The deaf community pray for her recovery.

Rev. H. L. Tracy will be with us again on Sunday afternoon of January 20th. Come, everybody, and hear him.

Don't forget the "Lit" meeting at the Masonic Temple, January 16th.

Mr. William R. Harrison, twenty-one year-old son of Mrs. Ferd Harrison, of 624 Fifth Street, N. E., was married to Miss Dolores E. Magee, December 31st, 1928. They are living with the former's mother. The bride is said to be the prettiest young lady living on the Northeast section. Congratulations.

The Washington Division No. 46, N. F. S. D., will have a Variety Social, to be held at the Masonic Temple on the night of February 9th. Mr. A. J. Parker is chairman. "500" will be played and prizes awarded. Odd games will be indulged in for those who do not play cards and prizes will also be given for the winners. The deaf of the four winds are welcome to have a good time.

The Baltimore University basketballers won from Gallaudet by 37 to 34, Saturday night, January 5th, in the Kendall Green gymnasium.

Through this column, our heart goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Alex Lob-singer upon the death of their only son recently.

The influenza is spreading in this city. Several deaf are down with it, but not seriously. The hospitals in the city are rather crowded, but all said that they were able to take care of additional patients if necessary.

Mrs. Sadie Eskin, beloved wife of Mr. Jacob B. Eskin, age 37, passed away at George Washington Hospital, December 29th, at 10 A. M., after a lingering illness. The funeral, though private yet impressive, took place at the Danzky Undertaking Parlor, 14th and Otis Streets, N. W., and burial was at the District Hebrew Cemetery. Mrs. Eskin was formerly Miss Sadie Pollock, of Philadelphia, being a product of the Mt. Airy School.

She is survived by her husband, four-year-old son, Alwyn, mother, three brothers, and one sister of Philadelphia and New York respectively. Mr. Eskin is employed as engraver at the United States Geodetic Survey. Sympathy is extended to Mr. Eskin in his bereavement.

The Business meeting of the Ladies' Guild of St. Barnabas' Mission will be held at the home of Miss Charlotte Croft, on the night of February 5th, at No. 1722 Lamont St., N. W. Every member is urged to attend.

The host of friends of Mrs. R. Boswell are rejoicing that she has recovered entirely from the severe cold which she caught a week ago.

The monthly free social of St. Barnabas' Mission was held at the Parish House of St. Mark's Church on the night of January 9th. Some games were played, which were enjoyed. Refreshments were served. The next social will be on the night of February 13th.

The "500" Card Club, of which Mrs. W. E. Marshall is president, was held at the cosy home of Mrs. C. Quinley, Monday evening, December 31st. The husbands of the lady members were invited to play with them. Refreshments were served after the old year departed.

Mr. Wallace Edington is still at the Springfield State Hospital in Maryland, though he is somewhat improved.

The Washington Division No. 46, N. F. S. D., is preparing to give a grand opening House Social, to be held at the Masonic Temple, on the night of March 4th.

Mr. Courtney is chairman. It will be free to all. Come one, come all, and have a good time.

I wish to add that Mrs. Ferd Harrison was one of the committee that served the supper of the Baptist Church on December 28th.

MRS. C. C. COLBY.
515 Ingraham, N. W.

DETROIT

Mr. Claude Ozier spent several days visiting his mother in Memphis, Tenn., during the holidays.

David Anderson, who left school at Flint in the year of 1881, passed away last July 8th, of cancer of the head and throat. Mr. Anderson was well known among the Michigan deaf. Sympathy goes to his wife and child.

The only son, Norman, of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Lob-singer passed away last December 31st, at Herman Keifer Hospital. Brain fever and influenza caused his death. The funeral was held at Mr. and Mrs. Lob-singer's home and burial was in Mt. Olivet Cemetery. Much sympathy goes to the parents.

The D. A. D. had a big watch night celebration. A crowd was on hand. Mr. De Fazio is the young new president.

On December 31st, Mr. Ralph Hulin was chairman for the watch night at the Frat Club of the Deaf. About 200 people were there and enjoyed it very much.

Visitors from out of town were Miss Helena Warsaw, of Cleveland, Ohio; Miss Ruby Hutchinson, of Akron, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. John Curry, Mr. and Mrs. Blum, and Mr. and Mrs. Henick, all of Toledo; Mr. Donald Mitchell, of Port Huron; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mackey; Mrs. Edna Dietrich of Pontiac, Mr. and Mrs. Brown of Rochester, Mich.; Miss Mildred Trine, of Flint; Mrs. Frank Smith, of Ypsilanti. There were many more, but ye writer could not get their names.

A social was held at St. John's Parish House on Friday, January 4th. A fair crowd was there.

Misses Helen Warson and Ruby Hitchinson intended to come here by airplane, but it was too cold. They said they will try to make the trip some other time. Watch them!

Mr. John McDonough has been in Detroit a couple of weeks, visiting his old friends.

Mrs. Irma Ryan's son presented her with a new Singer electric sewing machine for Christmas. She is very proud of it.

Mrs. Frances McMahon is improving after a week's illness.

Mr. and Mrs. John Snyder are on the sick list.

Rev. Franklin Smielau will give a sermon at St. John's Episcopal Church on January 13th. Everybody is welcome.

Mrs. Bertha Toegel's son, Harry, of Traverse City, took his family to spend several months in Broadway, Virginia, with his wife's folks.

Paul Belling, of Chicago, dropped in this city to look for work.

Mr. Robert Baird, of Galveston, Texas, returned to this city last Sunday, and goes back to his old job after a year's absence. His wife and children are still in Galveston, Texas, but they will soon come and join her husband.

MRS. LUCY MAY.

Deaf and Dumb Boy Blinded in Both Eyes.

Texarkana, Ark., Dec. 26.—For seven of his nine years, Edward Crawford was unable to hear Christmas horns or to express his admiration of gifts, and this Christmas he is unable even to see the array of brilliant-hued toys that Santa Claus left for him in a Texarkana hospital.

He has been deaf and dumb since an attack of spinal meningitis during his second Christmas. Saturday, he and some companions were celebrating the advent of Christmas by exploding dynamite caps. One exploded in Edward's face, blinding both eyes.

"He's true to God who's true to man;
Whoever wrong is done
To the humblest and the weakest
'Neath the all-beholding sun,
That wrong is also done to us,
And they are slaves most base,
Whose love of right is for themselves,
And not for all the race."

THE totally deaf, and also the hard of hearing, are beginning to be somewhat shy on patronage at the "movie" theatres where sound effects is an addition to the motions on the screen. It is quite natural, if not reasonable, that the deaf should shun the "talkies," which eliminate the enlightening prints of explanation that alternate with the pictured scenes.

Yet, from personal experience, the editor has found the "talkies" quite entertaining, though in some cases the action is somewhat abrupt and does not tell the story in a smooth and connected manner. It seems to have been curtailed to suit the musical (or the speaking) part.

Most of the "sound pictures" specialize in part on the orchestral music, though there is dialogue interspersed with the pictured part of the story. Usually in this dialogue, the characters are "stiff" and immobile, suggesting that the picture of the talkers and the sound of their voices although synchronized, had been filmed at a different time or by a different camera. The speech of some of these dialogue characters can sometimes be read from their lips by an ordinary lip-reader. But the main thread of the story is told by the pictured action of the characters, in such ample way as to interpret itself.

At the present time, the most suitable subjects are the monologues, by which the audience gets addresses from famous people.

The song and dance film gives both sound and action, and ought to satisfy people who cannot hear.

The deaf do not stand in the way of progress nor bewail any advance that entertains those who can hear. Yet it is difficult to understand how the hearing world can get actors who not only "screen well," but also talk well.

It would seem that the elocutionary effect, or the screen excellence, must suffer; because great actors, who sway multitudes by the sound of their voices, combined with incomparable stage presence, are very rare.

It may be that, in the not far distant future, the radio and the wonders of television will combine to bring the theatre into the homes of all who can afford to install the necessary receiving outfit.

THIS WEEK we present the customary news letter from Gallaudet College. Since the close of the college term in June, 1928, only dribblets of intelligence from this institution of advanced education have been received, although we have always been willing to pay at least a pittance to the student who broadcasted in printed English the doings at the only college for the deaf in all the world. Mr. David Mudgett explains that "extra-curricular activities" have prevented him from writing, but expresses his willingness and desire to do so regularly hereafter. For almost fifty years the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL has carried each week a column or so of college news, and many of the most prominent and most distinguished among Gallaudet's alumni can look back with a thrill of pride at their early experience as writers for a newspaper that is published in the interests of the deaf.

PITTSBURGH

Both No. 36, N. F. S. D., and the local P. S. A. D. branch have elected new officers for the ensuing year. Harry Zahn was re-elected president of the former; James C. Taylor, vice-president; Sam Rogalsky, treasurer (re-elected); Wesley Stevenson, Director; Daniel Evans, Sergeant-at-Arms; Charles Fritzsche, trustee for three years, and Peter Graves, Deputy Organizer. The P. S. A. D. first had business meeting at St. Peter's parish house and elected officers as follows: President, Fred Connors; Vice-President, Mrs. F. M. Holliday; Secretary, F. A. Leitner, re-elected; and Treasurer, J. L. Friend, re-elected. It was decided to dispense with the services of a general chairman of the Ways and Means Committee for a year, the president to appoint a different chairman for each month. If this works with better results than the old arrangement, which is expected, the change will become permanent. It practically makes the president general chairman, is the way Mr. Connor feels about it, but it makes no difference to a good and willing worker, where the uplift of the deaf is concerned. There is still plenty of enthusiasm among the members of the branch, which assures him co-operation.

At the last Frat meeting it was learned that Angelo Corrado, a Mr. Airy product and long resident here, had gone back to his old home in Minden, Nebraska. Inability to find work was given as the cause of removal. An unusually large number of out-of-town-ers were present at this meeting, among them, Dean Tussing, of Detroit; George Greco, of Audley Pitzer, Russell Diehl, of Greensburg; Charles McArthur, of Johns town; James Butterbaugh, of Altoona, and Sam Bentley, of Akron, Ohio. Clarence Nesbit was transferred from the Huntington, W. Va., division to this, and Edgar Hay from the Cincinnati division. Both expect to be permanently located here. Abner Harkless has left us and is at present employed as a painter at Oil City, Pa. Walter Wilinski, Fred W. Swift and Harry Pike were the new members admitted to No. 26.

St. Margaret's Mission staged a Christmas Carol, arranged as an entertainment from Dickens' story, at the parish house, Fifth and Craft Avenues, Saturday, December 29th. Considering the preparations made, it was a splendid success. The health of the chief participants prevented rehearsals and then there was the time occupied in preparing for the Christmas celebration. It seemed the worst time one could pick to stage a play, if it was to be a success. The facilities afforded by the parish and the stage settings did no little toward adding to the attractiveness of the occasion. The characters were as follows:

Ebenezer Scrooge..... F. M. Holliday
Jacob Marley..... William McK. Stewart
Fred, Scrooge's nephew..... Fred Connor
Bob Cratchitt..... W. J. Gibson
Tiny Tim..... F. M. Holliday, Jr.
Mr. Fezziwig..... F. A. Leitner
Boy..... F. M. Holliday, Jr.
The Ghost of Christmas Past
The Ghost of Christmas Present
The Ghost of Christmas to Come
Mrs. F. M. Holliday

The latter acted the three parts in different attire, first in white, second in pajamas and holly wreath on head, and third in black robe, a hood covering her features. Some had the audacity to tell the writer that he was just the person to take the part of Scrooge. Have you read the story? If not, do so, as you are certain to enjoy it hugely.

Mark February 23d red on your calendar. It is to be the occasion of the sixteenth annual banquet of Division No. 36, N. F. S. D., at the new Roosevelt Hotel, Penn Avenue and Seventh Street. The charge will be $2.25 per plate, and we can avail ourselves of the use of a dancing floor. Mr. Sam Nichols, chairman in charge of the banquet committee, is leaving no stone unturned to make this coming banquet an epochal event in the history of local deafdom, as is evidenced by one effort on his part to secure the Honorable James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, on the program for an address. No one knows his onions better than Mr. Davis, when speaking at a fraternity banquet.

He has been head of the National Moose Lodge for years. As the time is a little far off yet, Mr. Davis can not promise to gratify our wish, but says that if he finds it possible to be in Pittsburgh, his home town, around the time of the banquet, it will give him great pleasure to be with us. Mr. Nicholas, who is a second "coz" of Mr. Davis, will write again three weeks before banquet time, to improve our chances of securing him.

Division No. 39 will hold a smoker at McGeagh Hall, January 19th. The "goat" will have his spurs on. So Wilkinsburg has at last secured its charter and will be known as Division 109. Pittsburgh as good as has two divisions, for eventually, if not within a year, Wilkinsburg will become a part of the big city and lose its individuality. Convenience of those living far from the headquarters of No. 36 influenced the establishment of the new division.

The mother of Mr. Elmer Havens passed away January 5th, from heart failure. Besides Elmer, she is survived by her husband.

At this writing, Mr. F. A. Leitner is confined to his home with an attack of the "flu." This is his first time to be out of whack since his marriage eleven years ago.

Jean, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. R. Myles, who went to New Jersey several months ago, was married there last December. She and her hubby spent Christmas with her parents.

The P. S. C. had a Watch Night Dance, December 31st. As usual, there was a large crowd, mostly of the younger generation.

F. M. HOLLIDAY.

Portland, Oregon

After some weeks of intense anxiety, the many friends Mr. B. L. Craven were glad to learn he is on the road to recovery, at a local hospital, where he was taken after a severe illness, followed by a minor operation. Mrs. Craven states her husband could be out of the hospital in a week or ten days, but would not be able to return to his place of employment for a month. Mr. Craven was elected President of the Portland Division, No. 41, N. F. S. D., shortly before he became sick. Mr. Charles Lynch, who was elected Vice-President, will be President until Mr. Craven is able to attend the Frat meeting.

The New Year party given under the auspices of the Portland Frats was attended by nearly one hundred deaf and a good time was had. The event was directed by Mr. Courtland Greenwald, chairman, Mr. O. Van Eman, Mr. Charles Lynch and Mr. Oscar Anderson.

Miss Daisy Morrison, a popular young lady amongst the Portland deaf, became the wife of Mr. Ed. Johnson recently.

Portlanders who took in the big annual New Year's Party in Seattle were Miss A. Oihus, Mr. Allen and Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Nelson. The event, which was captained by Mr. W. S. Root, was a success and an account of which, no doubt, will appear in the Seattle column.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Nelson, who spent three days in Seattle during New Year, really appreciate the hospitality of the deaf in the Sound City. The Nelsons were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Root, where a "500" card party was given Saturday night, December 29th. The Sunday following they took dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Wright. From the latter's home all went to the Lutheran Church for the deaf, where a fine sermon by Rev. Gaertner was preached. After the service the visitors were taken by the Wrights along with others to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bertram, where a long table was prepared for a delicious supper. The evening was spent in chatting until nearly midnight. On Monday, the last day of the year, they were sightseeing around Seattle's tall buildings. In the evening they were invited to dinner at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Olof Hanson, after which all went to the New Year party, returning to Portland Tuesday evening, satisfied that a better time could not be had. The Nelsons are expecting some of the Seattle friends to come to Portland for the big masquerade February 23d.

Mrs. Robert Lines, who was taken to the Portland hospital, is now with her husband in an apartment house, was considered improved, but lately it was learned she is again in a bad condition from her past illness.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Divine, of Vancouver, Wash., motored to Idaho during the holidays to visit relatives. One of their sons went along. The youngest son, being down with the "flu," could not go, but at time of this writing is well again. Both Mr. and Mrs. Divine are teachers at the Vancouver, Wash., school.

THE ANNUAL MASQUERADE PARTY

"Whoopie" its coming," the words which Mr. W. S. Root, of Seattle, used to advertise the big party he directed in the Washington.

Now Mr. Charles Lynch will shout "Whoopie," as he was chosen chairman for the big masquerade under the auspices of Portland Division, No. 41, N. F. S. D., to be held at one of the big Halls in the W. O. W. Temple, East 6th and Alder Streets, Saturday night, February 23d. Doors will be opened at 7 o'clock. There will be prizes for different costumes. Mr. Courtland Greenwald, leader of Portland's Silent Bowling team, says he may stage a game between them and Seattle's team either on Saturday afternoon, February 23d, or Sunday the 24th. Remember the date—February 23d, as announced by Chairman Lynch. A hot time can be assured, with Mr. Lynch as leader.

H. P. NELSON.

CHICAGO

Chicago deafdom has settled down after its annual holiday spree. One elderly matron kept count, and found she attended parties on nine out of ten days during the holidays. "Flaming Youth" must have its fling. Sewing her Mild Oats. Eat, drink and be merry—for tomorrow we diet.

One of the several "Big Shots" sojourning here over the Scrapy Yuletide was Miss Bessie MacGregor—a teacher in the Ohio school—daughter of one of the six immortal fighting men of deafdom's history. She was guest of Nad president Roberts and his spouse.

The first to honor Miss MacGregor were Mrs. Linda Brimble and Miss Goldie Newman, who had a score dinner at a neighborhood restaurant (and footing the bill, if anybody asks me). Mesdames Craig and Flick followed suit, giving a "500" and dinner which the hubbies attended. Mrs. Roberts gave a "500" and lunch to a dozen.

January 5th, the Meaghers had twenty-eight guests to honor the trio—Miss MacGregor, of Columbus, O.; Mrs. Frank Lessley, of Denver, and Mrs. Gus Hyman—superintendent of the Home for Aged Deaf—whose birthday came next day. Prizes for "500" went to Mesdames Henry, Gibson, Roberts, Ann Hyman and Schriver, with guest prizes to the three honored. Prizes for other games went to Mrs. Gibson, Mrs. Walters and Miss Erickson.

January 6th, quite a few dropped in on Mrs. Ben Ursin, who is beginning to feel herself after a serious operation. David Padden donated a number of nice prizes for "500," Mrs. Ursin herself taking first place.

The Ingval Dahls also gave a party during the holidays. In all, there must have been a hundred holiday affairs among the 3000 Chicago silents. Unlike small towns, not all of us know each other, nor move in the same circles—despite the herculean work of the N. F. S. D. in bringing all deaf together in one common bond of brotherhood.

The Illinois Advance, published at our State School, has become a handsomely illustrated monthly magazine, well edited and well printed. The last edition stated arrangements had been made to have the school band play here in our loop, at the State-Lake vaudeville house, the week of December 30th. If it did, none of us know—for the press-publicity on the State-Lake bill made no mention. Chicago and New York alone of all cities in the land are so big that we deaf can almost no mention in the press, no matter what we do.

Chicago Wish Bone basketball team walloped the Milwaukee Silent basketball team in a thrilling game before 350 people at Lincoln Turner Gymnasium Saturday, January 5th, the score being 28 to 19. Both played a hotly contested game. At the end of the first half, the score stood 16 to 15 in favor of the Chicago boys, who forged ahead after a five-minute recess, and gained twelve points, in the second half and the visitors, fourth. The Milwaukee boys' playing was splendid, in spite of their defeat. Three of their best players, who are on the shelf with injuries and illness in Milwaukee, were unable to come along with their team. They were accompanied by about thirty deaf persons here from Milwaukee, Racine and Kenosha, by a bus and automobiles. After the game, the guests passed a pleasant evening in dancing till midnight.

The Fred Youngs were among the many locals afflicted with the flu.

"Deaf and Dumb Star in Charity Cage Tilt" headlines an item in the pre-holidays Herald and Examiner, relating to one Saunders of the Forester All Stars.

Miss Emma Mauser, the burning blonde beauty who came here from Lincoln, Neb., soon after the Denver convention, spent a few weeks Christmas' vacation with her folks in Nebraska.

The Rev. G. Flick conducted the funeral of Roy Thompson in Delavan, Wis., January 4th.

Miss Mabel Johns, of New York, was the holiday guest of the Flicks.

Misses Gladys Watts and Emma Claus, of Ottawa, Ill., were holiday guests of Mrs. A. Walters.

Little Bobbie, only son of the Emery Horns, is in Belmont Hospital, suffering with an abscess of his right ear.

Pretty Mrs. Warren Schulz, who as Mollie Liso attended the Washington N. A. D. convention, died during the holidays, after an illness of a year.

The plume for possessing the prettiest Christmas tree is generally awarded the M. Schuettlers.

Coach Robert Burns, of the State school football team, spent his Christmas vacation in Miami and Tallahassee, Florida.

Lars Larson, the aged father of Mrs. Ben Ursin, is spending a couple of months with her.

Mrs. Frank Lessley, of Denver, wife of the toastmaster of the memorable Frat convention banquet, spent a month in Chicago, with her daughter, Miss Maude, who has been guest of the Gibsons, since coming last fall to work. Mrs. Lessley left on the 11th, intending to stop over in Omaha, with the Edwin Hazels and Horace Buells, both former Chicago families.

Francis P. Gibson attended the funeral of an uncle in Cleveland, January 5th.

The E. S. A. held a monthly business meeting at the Ephpheta Club house on Sunday, January 6th, at 4 P.M. After supper served to those who stayed for a "500" and bunco party, managed by Mrs. C. Yanzito, the members passed a social evening in games for prizes.

The annual dance given by Chicago Council of K. L. D., at Alma Mater Hall, on Saturday, January 5th, was attended by a small crowd, on account of the bad weather.

Miss Edith Ross, a former pupil of the Iowa School for the Deaf, but living at Vermillion, S. Dak., came here to visit in this city for two weeks.

The Pas-a-Pas Club had a monthly business meeting at the club room Saturday, January 5th, the attendance being small because of the weather conditions.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew M. Knauf, Jr., entertained twelve friends of the Silent Athletic Club at dinner at their home in Aurora, Ill., Sunday, December 16th. Dinner was served on one long table decorated red and green. There was also a Christmas tree which was decorated very beautifully cards were played during the afternoon. Honors went to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harding, Miss Betty Plonshinski and Mr. Padden. At 6 o'clock lunch Christmas box and Santa Claus ice-cream was served which was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Andrew M. Knauf, Jr., entertained a few Chicago friends at luncheon at her home in Aurora, Ill., January 3d. After luncheon "500" was played, the honors going to Mrs. Morton Henry, Mrs. Anton Tanzar and Mrs. John D. Sullivan.

The Scrapy New Year came in with a blaze of glory—but for the first time in modern history the magnificent Silent Athletic Club was "silent" indeed. No longer are its New Year gambols the town-talk on New Year's. The Pas-a-Pas Club and the M. E. flock held watch-out-night parties in the loop, and about a dozen various private parties were scattered clear from the Johnnie Sullivans at 103d Street, on the South, to the Luther Woods, way up North in Wilmette. The latter saw eighteen select souls, starting at three in the afternoon with seven games of "500"—where Jimmie Meagher set what is considered an all-time "500" record in deafdom by netting 4920 points. His high for one rubber was 1190, made paired with the guest of honor—Miss Bessie MacGregor, of Columbus, O.—who came to observe how the unenlightened heathen in Chicago celebrate. The doe-eyed Bessie will probably entertain the civilized citizenry of Columbus, for moons to come, with tales of the wild and woolly West, on Chicago's far frontier.

Among other "watch-night" blow-outs recorded were the affairs by Chioral, 106, and the Schuettlers, Knoblocks, Lystads, Himelsteins, Lorenz and Hills.

There are about twenty deaf children in Parker Junior High School, Chicago, and one of them—LaVerne Miller—drew the gorgeous cover of the Christmas issue of the school magazine. Three of the deaf will graduate in February and then enter the Sophomore year of Senior High—one of them being the beautiful, long-haired Caroline Hyman, daughter of the superintendent of the Illinois Home for Aged Deaf.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Schmidt, of Aurora, spent Christmas with her sister in Elburn, Ill.

Mrs. Andrew Knauf, of Aurora, was sick with "flu" for a week, but she is all right now.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dickens, of Aurora, formerly Mary Pittard, are the youngest grandparents, as their daughter gave birth to a baby girl.

Mrs. Sadie E. Allen's brother and wife motored to Aurora, Ill., from Denver, Col., and spent Christmas with his relatives a few days, and then they went to Georgia by auto and visited their daughter to stay there till spring and then return home to Denver.

Miss Sarah O'Brien and Mr. and Mrs. James Dickens were sick with "Flu," but are all right now.

Rev. Rutherford holds a service in M. E. Church once a month in the evening.

Father Joseph O'Brien, who has been in a hospital for two weeks, has been taken to his home for a rest this week.

Miss Mary McDonald, whose home is at Joliet, Ill., spent two weeks' vacation here.

Mr. John O'Rourke was recently the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Campbell. He just returned from a trip to Australia. He said he had a very enjoyable time. Mr. O'Rourke is a great traveler and is known in deaf circles all over the United States. He left for Los Angeles where he has many friends. —California News.

FLORIDA FLASHES

The memories of the writer were refreshed Saturday, December 22d, when he approached the contour of West Palm Beach and saw many evidences of destruction of buildings and foliage by the recent hurricane, of which the resort city bore the heaviest brunt. Owing to the financial embarrassment of owners and investors, the debris has not been removed in many parts of the stricken area. One amusing incident which shows the ingenuity of the storekeepers is the resumption of business with the improvised ceiling to protect them, the roof having been twisted and blown down. Many of the palms are bent at an angle of forty-five degrees and in some places much lower. A great number of the affected buildings will have to be dismantled to make way for the construction of better and stronger structures. The peculiar spectacle of many of the Australian pine trees, whose tops have been swept away as if mowed down by gunfire, impressed him greatly.

A large apartment building, two stories high, owned by a deaf-mute in West Palm Beach and located almost in the centre of the shopping district, is almost a total wreck, the top floor being rendered uninhabitable by the toppling of the roof. Everything therein was soaked "to the skin" and at this writing the store rooms are all being occupied, but the upper part of the building will not be ready for occupancy for several weeks yet. At a recent auction, the goods of a defunct drug store worth fifteen thousand dollars, were sold to the deaf owner of that apartment building for almost a song, which amounted to two thousand dollars. He has opened the drug store for business in one of his store rooms. It is understood that at the return of the prosperity tide he will dispose of the outfit at a handsome profit.

Among the residences owned or rented by deaf-mutes of that city was one practically annihilated by the terrific storm and everything lost except the Holy Bible and the exposed portion of the book pointed to Chapter 13 of Job. The victim of this disaster has since bought one acre of land eight miles out of the city limits, and with the donation of building material by the local Red Cross, will build a cottage of comfortable dimensions. By the way, he is a carpenter and will utilize his spare moments in erecting it.

A tour through the colored section of the city was an awe-inspiring sight. Many of the houses collapsed and snapped like paper-shelled pecans. Some tilted, still standing. Others however badly soaked and crumpled, are yet occupied. Still others were flattened out like flounders and some of them have been restored and the occupants are proud enough to call them homes as of days bygone. There is a tent city not far from the devastated district, and the colored residents seem contented with new environment, and in the midst of the colony stood a Christmas tree, which fact thrilled the populace with joy of the birth of the blessed Jesus and the pickaninnies with the anticipation of the appearing of Santa Claus.

Palm Beach and Lake Worth also suffered, but have survived the wrath of the elements and are once again evidencing signs of progress and prosperity. It will be many months before the last semblance of the hurricane becomes faded from visibility.

On every hand along the East Coast, unemployment still stares the unfortunates in the face and they perforce become dependent upon charity. Promises of work rekindle the fire of hope and expectancy, and soon the failure of the powers-that-be to fulfill them smother it. Some resort to diverse ways of making a meager living until working conditions begin to improve, while others have gone to live with relatives who are not so badly hit by the collapse of the boom. Which reminds us of the appearance of fat and lean years during the premiership of Joseph.

The writer and his party spent Christmas Day in four cities; namely, Miami Fort Lauderdale, West Palm Beach and St. Cloud. Everywhere cheer, notwithstanding privation, sickness and unemployment, pervaded the homes of the poor and the rich alike.

On Sunday at 3 o'clock, a religious service was conducted at the White Temple and was attended by upwards of twenty deaf residents and visitors. Mr. Edgar Hay, who writes daily a column of show places and does other reportorial work for the Miami Herald, was one of the attendants.

Miami seems to be the receiving station, for tourist cars bearing licenses from many of the northern and western states continue pouring into the Magic City and few returned northward. Speaking of the weather down there, it was just about the same as in this section, judging from the smoke oozing out of chimneys. As far north as West Palm Beach, a few au natural ventured to enjoy surf bathing.

After all, St. Cloud, the Friendly City, beckoned the weary party home Tuesday night and made them to realize that nowhere in the State have they such "Home, Sweet Home," as here.

When the last census was made, Jacksonville was leading first in the number of residents and Miami had the largest deaf population. Now the position of these respective cities is reversed, Miami is credited with possessing more souls than any other rival in the State, but of the deaf in greater numbers Jacksonville boasts. According to a survey just made, all the deaf in Jacksonville are working, which fact is all the more pleasing; not so fortunate, however, in other Florida cities.

It is a matter of much regret that Nathan Harris, of Jacksonville, who has been guiding the destinies of the Baptist Bible Class of the Deaf since its establishment, contemplates returning to Michigan in the spring. Business conditions in the North are so encouraging that he deems it advisable to make hay while the sun shines. Here's hoping that when he has acquired a golden egg that he has laid, he will hike back to the land of sunshine and recreation.

In the Tampa Tribune of December 2d, appeared a group of football-playing brothers of Plant City. Gordon and Jus with the Florida Gaters and Edward (Ted) with the Gallaudet College team of Washington, D. C., compose the Clemens family.

Neal Motley, of Geneva, Ala., announces his intention of attending the reunion at St. Augustine in May. He formerly attended school there.

Many of Joseph Janik's friends in Indiana will be pained to learn of his commitment to the poorhouse at Kendall, near Miami, due to his advanced age and his being homeless. He worked in a shoeparing shop of his own in Miami until six years ago, when his seventy-five years bore heavily upon him. He is slightly paralyzed and his condition renders him difficult to talk with understanding.

The Jacksonville Journal featured a special story in a recent issue on the raising of turkeys in a pen in the backyard a city home of Mrs. B. F. Johnson. She is deaf daughter who is interested in turkology.

Allentown, Pa.

On Wednesday, December 12th, the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Thomas, Lutheran Church for the Deaf, gave a Christmas party. Santa Claus, impersonated by Mr. William Young, distributed gifts in the form of candy boxes and oranges to the "kiddies." Games, in which prizes were given, were the features of the grown-ups.

The folks had another Christmas party on the 22d of December, held by the Allentown Club for the Deaf. Gifts were given to both kiddies and grown-ups. Mr. William Bahl played the role of Santa Claus. The way the grown-ups acted toward him gave an impression that they believed there was a Santa Claus after all.

Rev. C. A. Bechtold and Student-Minister Edward Kaercher conducted services at the St. Thomas' Lutheran Church for the Deaf, on December 16th. The baptism of seven children took place. The three children of Mrs. Edgar Mato were the first to reach the altar, then followed the four little tots of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Weiss. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Charlesworth were the sponsors for the Weiss children. Mr. Bechtold gave the sermon, interpreted by a hearing daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Haney. Holy Communion followed.

After the services, Mr. Kaercher received a Christmas present of five dollars in gold from Mr. and Mrs. William Lawrence, of Easton. Then Mrs. S. C. McCormick, in behalf of the Ladies' Aid Society, gave him a ten-dollar gold piece.

On December 29th, Harry Zelesne, of Philadelphia, spent the week-end with Francis Farruge, of Bethlehem. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ray Snyder attended the funeral of the late Harland Markel, who passed away on Christmas Day, at Plymouth Meeting, Pa.

A surprise birthday party was tendered to Ernest Sechler at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Weiss.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bahl sponsored a New Year's Eve party at their home on December 31st, to their friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray H. Snyder visited Miss Mary Bulger, a patient at the Hamburg, Pa., Sanatorium.

Mrs. Annie Bradbury, with her two hearing daughters, motored to Lansford, Pa., to visit another daughter, who is staying with her grandmother. The journey up in these coal regions greatly interested her.

Ever since Clinton Weiss moved to Emans with his family, the deaf folks have been up to his place almost every Sunday. As the folks have no other place to gather, Mr. Weiss home has become their "Mecca." For his generosity a deaf feller's sister gave him a brand new "pup" to keep things lively.

On December 8th, Mr. and Mrs. William Lawrence, of Easton, Pa., spent the week-end with Mr. Frank Mooney and his sister, Mr. Mooney took them to Wilkesbarre, Pa., to see old acquaintances.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Krause purchased a new home not long ago, a home of their own with no landlord's bills to dodge. When writing to them, kindly use this address — 841 Greenleaf Street, Allentown, to do their postman a favor.

Gallaudet College

With a thousand teeming memories crying out to be told, with four whole months of week-ends, each one worthy of a page in the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, the writer is in a quandary where and how to begin. To relate it all in one brief column is a task that would wear out many blue pencils and scissors, so we will have to skip lightly over the main events of the term and refer our readers to the Buff and Blue for a more detailed description. Send in your subscription now.

The football season was the same old story of the "game away" jinx. We lost our five games away and won by substantial margins all three games at home. The game with Temple University, in which the Buff and Blue men held Temple to a 6-0 score in the first half, but were greatly outnumbered and beaten in the second half by the score of 39-0, and the last game with Bridgewater College whom we overran 84-0, were easily the most spectacular games of the year. "Rabbit" Ringle made a name for himself in Gallaudet football annals, while Otto Reins, playing his last year on Kendall Green, was the same old solid bulwark of the line.

Next year's football team will miss Messrs. Ridings, Byouk, and Reins, three veteran players who graduate this year. All three have been on Gallaudet's line-up for the last five years and have always been classed among the best players we have. Ridings, playing center, has had only one worthy contender for that position during his stay at college, Bilger, and when Bilger left college he became once again our only trustworthy center. Byouk starred as a back during his first two years at Gallaudet and, playing with Masinkoff, made quite a name for himself. In 1927 he was elected captain, but injuries prevented his playing in more than two games throughout the season. In 1928 he was again given the captaincy, and did sterling work in the line, for his knee compelled him to shift to an end berth. Reins, with his 200 pounds of fat and muscle has always been a formidable guard who could be depended upon to hold back any line, no matter how heavy.

The friends of Ringle, P. C., may be glad to hear that he has been elected to the captaincy of his team for the 1929 season.

Many pleasant social events have been staged under the skillful direction of Miss Elizabeth Peet, our most cable Dean of Women, and bus trips to historic places of interest have been inaugurated by Mr. Powrie Doctor, the latest addition to the Faculty. These trips have proved of much interest to the students and more are planned for the future.

Coach Krug's basketball proteges have been slowly rounding into form. Dyer, our speedy floor-man and crack shooter, was put out of the line-up before the season began with a wrenched knee, but is now back again, playing his old spectacular game. Cosgrove, forward, Cain, center and guard, and Hokanson, guard, are old timers who can always be depended upon to put across a fast and accurate game. After several attempts to find a good guard among the new recruits, Ringle and Monaghan seem to have settled down in Miller's shoes as guard. With good support from a number of good substitutes, we should have an excellent team this year. We lost our first game to American University, 30-21, but downed Maryland State Normals, 35-25, and Benjamin Franklin University, 37-25, in the next two games. The Flint Silents, on a tour of the East were completely bewildered and outclassed, the final score being 34-13, even though the regulars had been removed and the substitutes put on the floor in the later part of the game. In spite of Dyer's return and a much improved style of play, we were defeated by the University of Baltimore quintet 37-34, in a hotly contested game, in which the score was tied five times. However, this defeat was offset by two flashy victories against Catholic University and the Old Dominion Boat Club teams. Our win over Catholic University, 26-21, was the first victory over that team in the last ten years and was given wide publicity in the local papers. The Old Dominion Boat Club offered no difficulty to speak of, although the score was 30-23. The game was played without the services of our marksmen, Dyer and Cosgrove, both of whom were out temporarily with sprained ankles, but Drapiewski and Stebbins filled their places in a way that did credit to both of them. Cain, Hokanson and Ringle completed the opening line-up. Although the Boatmen were dangerously close on our heels at times, we were never at the tail-end of the score and in the latter half of the game Coach "Wally" Krug substituted his second stringers, who maintained the lead until the whistle blew. Drapiewski accounted for twelve points and Hokanson came second with 8. Dyer's and Cosgrove's injuries are fast disappearing and it is believed they will play against Shepherd College and St. John's College (Annapolis) next Friday and Saturday.

Looking backward over the events of the week, the Literary Society meeting of last Friday stands out like a planet among the stars. It was a vivid answer to the oft-quoted saying that the Society is not "what it used to be." Mr. LeRoy Ridings, '29 outlined in vivid detail the events and occurrences of a trip to Florida with Mr. Paul Zieske, '31, in his talk entitled "Migrating Southward." The trip was made during the Christmas vacation and consumed some ten days. The two hitch-hiked their way to South Carolina, where they were joined by Nicholas Braunagel and his car, and the three continued their trip to Miami and other Florida cities and back to South Carolina. He portrayed in glowing narrative the joys and vicissitudes of a hitch-hikers, and in graphic signs built up Florida itself before our eyes, its white and green buildings rising among verdant, luxuriant vegetation, its long, broad avenues shaded by palm trees, and the hot, burning sands of the seashore. At the close of his talk he was given the enthusiastic applause of an interested optience.

Max Friedman '31, and Rudolph Gamblin, P. C., followed with a ludicrous dialogue, "Moonshine," in which the victim of a mountain gun-man escapes with his life by the recital of a series of unsuccessful attempts to commit suicide. Then Thomas Peterson, '29, rendered the declamation, "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," in such an animated way we almost felt ourselves among the miners at the bar, being swayed as they were by the strange musician's inspired notes. Mr. Howard T. Hofsteater, '30, closed the meeting with an excellent comment of the evening's program.

After the meeting refreshments were served at the expense of the young men as the penalty for losing the dramatic contest, staged during the Christmas vacation, between the men and the co-eds, in which the denizens of Fowler Hall carried away the honors.

A step further back in the history of the week leads us to the sermon of Professor Drake, Sunday afternoon, January 6th, which has been received with a great deal of favorable comment among the students. Mr. Drake selected the quotation from Kipling: "Yours is the world and all that is in it" for his theme, emphasizing the fact that each one gets from the world exactly what he gives to it. A man will enjoy life just so much as he is interested in life, and to illustrate his point, Mr. Drake mentioned the case of a certain student who had approached him with the statement that he thought college was not worth while and was a mere waste of time. Such a student is to be pitied, for he is blind to the countless possibilities of college life. He gets nothing out of life, because he is too lazy or disinterested to give anything to it. Mr. Drake never fails to give an interesting and thought-provoking talk when called upon to do so.

With this issue of the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, the correspondent inaugurates a new feature—that of publishing the social calendar at college for the following two weeks. This comes as a result of repeated requests of alumni, who contemplate visiting the college, for definite information on what is going to be "on" at Gallaudet, so that they can plan their visits accordingly, with the assurance of making it an enjoyable occasion. It is hoped that our readers will take full advantage of this feature. The program for the next two weeks is as follows:

Jan. 18—Basketball, Shepherd College, at home, 8 p.m.
Jan. 19—Co-eds basketball, American University, at home, 3:30 p.m.
Men's basketball, St. John's at Annapolis, 8 p.m.
O. W. L. S. Meeting, Fowler Hall, 8 p.m.
Jan. 20—Rev. H. L. Tracy, Chapel, 5:15 p.m.
Jan. 25—Literary Society
Jan. 26—Co-eds basketball, away.
Basketball—pending.

New York Congratulates Dr. Stevenson

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Elwood A. Stevenson. On New Year, 1929, just before the happy day passed into a memory, the stork left in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Stevenson, a bouncing baby boy, tipping scales at 8½ pounds. We are pleased to hear that both mother and baby are doing nicely. Mr. Stevenson must be very happy in the advent of this addition to his family, a son. His well known interest in the deaf is deep-rooted and he has chosen their education as his life work and will, no doubt, rejoice that he will have a successor to carry on his work among the deaf when the time comes for him to relinquish the work he is now carrying on. Who can tell that this little mite of humanity, born on New Year's Day, will not bud and grow up into a good and noble man and follow in the footsteps of his father, having the same interest in the deaf and also take up their education as his life work. The little fellow has been named Robert Schuyler, after his two grandfathers, both being deaf-mutes.

We regret there are no more Gallaudets, Peets, Fays or Walkers to carry on the education of the deaf, as those families had the love and interests of these people of silence at heart. May the Stevensons carry on the work among the deaf for many years to come and make a success out of it, and do not ever omit the Combined Method in all the time to come! Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Stevenson were married by a deaf clergyman, the late Rev. Dr. Cloud, in Washington, D. C., though both have their faculties in full.

NEWS AND COMMENTS

This scribe is indebted to Miss Adelaide Thomas and Mr. Jeff Scott for most of the social items appearing in this issue. These two young people are interested in newspaper reportorial work, and will hereafter gather most of the news of this section, preparatory to taking over all reportorial work of the Dixieland columns. The Atlanta deaf will please report all news of interest to these young people.

A brilliant affair, given during the holidays, was the New Year's Party on Saturday evening, December 29th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross A. Johnson, in Marietta. The spacious drawing room was elaborately decorated for the occasion, carrying out the holiday colors. The entrance to the beautiful room was adorned with young pine branches and holly leaves, the frames of the walls gleaming with myriads of tiny vari-colored electric lights.

Among the guests present were Misses Louise Hitchcock, Alice Holt, Adelaide Thomas, Ada Jackson, Jennie Belle Tucker, Ruby Brocker, Sue Ivester, Euell Dial and Virginia Lovvorn; Messrs. Jim Ponder, W. W. Yeagan, Herbert Williams, Frank Bartlett, Douglass Hitchcock, Jeff Scott, Mr. Nobles, John and Leonard McLean.

During the evening a number of games were played, after which the guests were treated to a delicious repast.

The guests in departing for their homes expressed great pleasure to Mr. and Mrs. Johnson for their most delightful hospitality.

Miss Lucille Crumley, of Locust Grove, Ga., has been visiting with relatives and friends in this city during the holidays. Her younger sister, Mildred, has returned to the school for the deaf at Cave Springs, after spending some time at home.

Miss Adelaide Thomas, with her mother and sister, left for Athens a few days ago, where her sister, Emma, went to resume her studies at the University of Georgia, after spending the holidays at home with her parents. Miss Thomas and mother returned to Atlanta the following day.

Miss Annie McDaniel, instructor in domestic science at the school for the deaf, spent a few days' pleasant visit in Atlanta previous to Christmas, driving across the country with Superintendent and Mrs. J. C. Harris, who were up here on business.

Mr. Bryan Bates, who graduated from the Alabama School for the Deaf in 1927, and whose home is in Ragland, Ala., has come to this city to make his home. He has secured a good position with Freeman Automobile Repair Shops, where Leonard McLean has been employed for several years. We welcome Mr. Bates to our city.

Latest rumors have it that the wedding bells will ring for a certain young couple hailing from South Georgia, some time during the summer, most likely during the D. A. D. convention.

On Friday 15th and 16th, eight southern schools for the deaf, located in Georgia, Alabama, Arkansas, South Carolina and Tennessee, will hold their third annual basketball tournament for the championship in the south at Atlanta Athletic Club.

The first and second annual tournaments were held in Atlanta with a remarkable success. The Arkansas team won the Michael's championship trophy in both tournaments. Georgia's team has improved greatly and promises to make good at the coming event. Many boosters are expected to come to Atlanta with their favorite teams. Rumors have been around that the Governor of Arkansas is coming to Atlanta to see his State team win the third time.

Atlanta deaf citizens are making plans to entertain the visiting teams and visitors during their stay in the city—Atlanta Journal.

Mr. Ross A. Johnson, the local Chairman in charge of the above, has planned most efficiently and well for this third tournament and everything is expected to go through like clock work.

Another delightful affair during the holidays was the dinner given at the Hotel Wincoff, on the evening of December 29th, honoring Prof. and Mrs. Wm. G. Jones, of New York City, who were in the city for a brief visit with their son, who resides in Atlanta.

After-dinner speeches, some modern interpretations by Prof. Jones, the presentation to Mrs. Jones of a lovely corsage of roses and lilies of the valley by the Nadfrat Woman's, and to Prof. Jones of a handsome Eversharp pencil, provided the pleasure and interest of the evening. Those present were Prof. and Mrs. William G. Jones, Percy W. Ligon, in charge of arrangements; Mrs. C. L. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Gholston, Mrs. J. G. Bishop, Mrs. H. A. Watts, Harry A. Watts, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt Morgan, Mrs. Maxine Belsky, Misses Nellie Rice, Gwen Robinson, Era McGinnis, Margie Weaver, Messrs. L. B. Dickerson, Elliott Young, Walter Christian, Bill Hug and Tom Jordan.

Their visit in Georgia was all too brief, and much regret was expressed that more of the deaf colony were not privileged to meet these distinguished guests. Shortly after his arrival in Atlanta, Prof. Jones communicated with this writer, who immediately began to arrange for their meeting some of our deaf here, all of whom fell in love with this most loveable couple and made every effort to express their pleasure in having them in our midst. We believe that we crowded enough excitement and entertainment into the last three days of their visit to give them a pretty fair sample of Southern hospitality. On Thursday this writer and her daughter motored out with them to see the wonderful Stone Mountain Memorial, which they viewed from every angle, spending the whole morning in inspecting and obtaining the real facts about the work from this scribe and the gentleman in charge there.

The central group of the Memorial is expected to be completed and unveiled this summer, and the Atlanta deaf have cordially invited Prof. and Mrs. Jones to return for the unveiling, and also for the big D. A. D. convention, which will be held here about the same time. Prof. Jones' daughter, Mrs. Wagner, a teacher in the New York Public Schools, accompanied them on the trip to Atlanta, and we found her most charming and well versed in the sign language. Come again, Dr. and Mrs. Jones, and make your stay longer.

Miss Gwen Robinson entertained a small party at her home on January 2d, in honor of Miss Lucile Crumley, of Locust Grove, Ga. Games were played and during the evening some of the girls slipped into the kitchen and made candy, which they had great fun pulling with the boys. Those present were: Misses Lucile Crumley, Virginia Lovvorn, Adelaide Thomas, Gwen Robinson, Messrs. Jeff Scott, Percy Ligon, Pat Kelly, W. W. Yeagan, Leonard McLean and Herbert Williams.

Mrs. H. A. Watts, daughter of this scribe, has moved into her new home, recently purchased, and we are now settled for good, we hope. Our friends and acquaintances who may desire to write us will please make note of the new address—503 Lawton Street, S. W.

News items for this column should be sent to James Reider, 1338 North Dover Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Harland Markel died at his home in Plymouth Meeting, Pa., on Tuesday afternoon, December 25th, after a five-year illness of tuberculosis, at the age of twenty-six years.

The funeral was held at his home on Saturday afternoon, December 29th, at 2:30 o'clock, in charge of Rev. G. H. Bechtold, assisted by Edward F. Kaercher, Student Pastor. Interment was made in the Norristown Cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. Roach, Schrager, Duby, Smith, Marsden, Howe, Shaw and Kaercher.

Mr. Markel graduated from P. I. D. in June, 1919. In the fall of the same year he entered Gallaudet College, where he pursued academic studies with the view to become a teacher. In May, 1924, two weeks before graduation he succumbed to tuberculosis following an attack of cold. Immediately he was sent home. Though he failed to take the degree examinations, the Gallaudet College Faculty awarded him the Bachelor of Arts degree because his record showed that he was a diligent student. He was very active in his college days. He was the Secretary of the Literary Society, manager of one of the best football teams in the college's history, one of the most eloquent actors on the stage and one of the most intelligent fellows of the younger set. He was beloved by his P. I. D. and Gallaudet fellows for his sincerity, loyalty and remembrance to them. He would be very valuable to his deaf brethren and would have a brilliant and useful career, if the disease did not place its finger upon him in the prime of his life.

Lambert Teufel died at his home in Milton, Pa., on Sunday, January 6th, after four years of ill health, at the age of fifty-six years. He was stricken with an attack of paralysis two years ago, and never recovered until death relieved him.

The funeral was held at Mr. Teufel's home on Wednesday afternoon, January 9th, at 2:30 o'clock. Student Pastor Edward F. Kaercher assisted the Rev. Dr. John Reimensnyder, hearing Lutheran minister, aged eighty. Interment was made in the Milton Cemetery.

Mr. Teufel is survived by his wife, two grown up sons who are both graduates of Milton High School. The deceased attended the Broad and Pine Streets School and at Mt. Airy, where he stayed one year before he graduated in 1893. He was a life-long resident of Milton. He has a number of nieces and nephews residing in the vicinity of Milton, and many of his relatives are influential. He was a very religious man, a faithful husband and a devout father. He is missed by many friends who had long associated with him.

On Sunday, December 30, 1928, Student Pastor Edward F. Kaercher inaugurated three services for the deaf as follows A.M.: Christ Church, Hazleton; afternoon, Christ Church,

Wilkesbarre; evening, St. John's Church, Scanton, where sixty-five, the largest number, attended the service. That means that he has then three established congregations and six preaching points, the result of two years' work. Rev. G. H. Bechtold, Executive Secretary of the Inner Mission Board of Pennsylvania collaborates with Mr. Kaercher. He is very sincere with the deaf and ambitious in learning to sign.

This column is indebted to Mr. Kaercher for the above notes. The more help we get from others, the more interesting we can make the Philadelphia column of the JOURNAL, which is intended for the whole Philadelphia community. So, help us.

Mr. Jacob O. Harner, of Reading,

Pa., has announced the marriage of his only daughter, Violet Harner, to Mr. Preston Sliker, on Christmas Day, 1928. Mrs. Sliker is a charming little hearing lady, who is quite an adept in the use of the sign language, and was useful as an interpreter at some meetings of the Pennsylvania Society for the Advancement of the Deaf. She had attended several conventions and therefore is known to a large number of the Pennsylvania deaf. We shall miss her presence in the future, but our very best wishes go with her wherever she goes. We understand that the couple will live in Hacketstown, N. J. Mrs. Sliker's mother died a number of years ago. Her sister, Mrs. Christian Snyder, raised her from a little girl.

Mrs. Ida B. Young's oldest daughter, Miss Betty, of Reading, Pa., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Minnie Troup, in Philadelphia for a fortnight. Mrs. Young and Mrs. Troup are the hearing daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Eakins, two of the most widely known deaf in Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. S. Reider called on Mrs. M. J. Syle on Thursday afternoon, 10th inst., and all were glad to see each other. Later Mr. Fletcher also called. Mrs. Syle is still confined to her room as an invalid, but, owing to her past, busy and active life, she seems restless.

Mr. William McKinney, who will reach his 80th birthday next November, if he lives till then, seems as well as one of his age can be, except for his eyes. He is being treated for them, nevertheless, he wisely seeks safety at home before dark and in the evenings and on stormy days.

A Christmas greeting card was received from Miss Lou H. Little, of Council Bluffs, Iowa. We are glad to know that she is still in the land of living. She formerly lived here.

The officers of the Beth Israel Association of the Deaf, elected in December last, are: President, Jacob S. Weinstein; Vice-President, Jacob Brodsky; Secretary, Jacob Goldstein; Treasurer, William H. Klein; and Sergeant-at-Arms, Carl N. Solov. It may be out of place for us to suggest it, but, if our Hebrew friends are anxious to get real benefit and pleasure from their association, they should try to attend its meetings regularly and offer the best they can to induce others to follow them. Another important thing is that they should open their meetings at a regular time instead of waiting for stragglers. Stress the opening time and keep on stressing it until the straggling habit is broken up. This is not said from a desire to criticize, but much rather to point to our friends the way to improvement.

A special meeting of the Board of Managers of the Pennsylvania Society for the Advancement of the Deaf will be held at the Institution for the Deaf in Mt. Airy on Saturday, January 19th, at 2:30 p.m.

At this month's meeting of the Philadelphia Division No. 30, N. F. S. D., the officers elected in December were installed.

Mrs. Elizabeth H. Rigg, of Elizabeth, N. J., was a visitor in the city over Sunday, 13th inst.

The Frats' annual frolic will come off on February 2d. See advertisement in this paper.

THE NEW JERSEY SOCIETY BALL

The next public social affair, which the deaf of Manhattan, Brooklyn and Bronx Boroughs have been anticipating is to come off this Saturday evening, at the Salaam Temple Mosque, 1020 Broad Street, Newark, N. J.

It is the 34th annual Dance and Entertainment of the New Jersey Deaf-Mute Society, Inc.

The hall in which it will be held ranks with the finest in the city of Newark, as the Salaam Temple Mosque is a million dollar building. The hall engaged by the society will easily accommodate, without crowding, two thousand.

The dancing floor is large, so there will be no crowding here either.

The music will be furnished by the celebrated Crimson Club Orchestra.

There will be a big surprise for those who attend, for a dozen Broadway specialties will be shown, including Dorothea Dean, premier acrobatic dancer.

This organization, which for the past thirty-four years has maintained a club house for its members, aided its sick, and promoted good fellowship, in fact, has kept the scattered deaf of New Jersey interested in the good work they have been doing.

NEW YORK

XAVIER EPHPHETA SOCIETY NOTES

Ushering in its twenty-sixth year as an organization, the Xavier Ephpheta Society staged a Christmas Tree Party on January 6th. An assembly of four hundred or more responded. Once again Joe and Andy Mattes filled their old-time duties as box-office holders.

Rev. Father Purtell, director of the X. E. S., opened the program with a lucid and interesting story of the Babe of Bethlehem. Concluding, he extended Yuletide greetings to all present and the deaf everywhere, with a prosperous New Year included.

A quartet of Eddie Kerwin's high steppers essayed an Al. Jolson's bit. They appeared however, in white face. The audience kept up a "tum-tum-rat-te-tat" on the floor, so fetching was the rhythm of the dancers.

Three young Misses, Mary Smith, Elizabeth Fromm and Mary Weeks, sang in concerted signs "Holy Night," accompanied by Miss Blanche Conan at the piano. Miss Frances Donovan led the vocal accompaniment.

Then along came President Fives with a merry twinkle in his eye and a happy commingling of glad words at the ends of his finger tips. Jerry did not blush. He never does. On the contrary, he electrified all, and asked that a repetition of the "approximate" 400 show up every month at X. E. S. services.

Other speakers followed in order—John F. O'Brien, James F. Donnelly, Sylvester J. Fogarty, John O'Donnell, Julius F. Kieckers.

Meantime, Santa Claus was trying, with the aid of stage attendants to get himself down the chimney back stage. As the curtain parted, the delay was obvious.

The rotund Kris Kringle had arrived in a big steamer basket. When the cover was unslashed, Santa was dug out, in all the raiment of red velvet, ermine, white beard and locks. The kids lined up and "Sonny" Leo, a three-year-old, led the procession up stage to greet him and receive a memento of his visit. The latter were plentiful, including miniatures of animals of a well-stocked zoo, with dolls and Chow, and boxes of candy to boot. Not one of the youngsters was allowed to go home empty-handed. All vowed Jimmy Lonergan (in private life) was about the best Santa Claus to be found anywhere.

The tree was a beauty, a twenty-footer, standing to the right of the stage. Bespangled and draped in a way that was dazzling. If you please it was Lady Em Hopping and Lord Edwin who were accountable for the artistic dressing of the monster evergreen.

Chairman Joseph Dennon was congratulated by all for the way he handled arrangements.

POSTPONEMENT.

As the date of the Entertainment by the Building Fund Committee of St. Ann's Church conflicts with the big affair at the Armory of the 69th Regiment it has been deemed advisable to postpone it to February 2d. Tickets with the date of January 26th printed thereon will be honored at St. Ann's on February 2d.

The Hebrew Association of the Deaf will hold an annual nomination of officers and business meeting on Sunday afternoon, January 20th, at 2:30 p.m., in the Union League Hall, 143 west 125th Street. Every loyal member is urgently requested to attend this meeting. Under auspices of the Entertainment Committee of the H. A. D., in the Union League Hall, there will be whist games on January 20th, at 7:30 p.m. Admission, seventy-five cents.

The mother of Randolph Nelson passed away on December 28, 1928. Funeral services were held December 31st, and interment was at Evergreen Cemetery, Brooklyn.

On Tuesday, January 8th, Mr. Jacob Ehrlich, uncle of Miss Katie Ehrlich, passed away at his home in New York City. Mr. Ehrlich was a pioneer in the optical business, being established in the city of New York since 1863, when he opened his first place of business in the Astor House. Mr. Ehrlich is survived by his widow six sons and two daughters.

The six sons associated in business with him, will continue to carry on the business in their several stores throughout New York City and Brooklyn.

Nathan W. Miller, one of the two boys who attended Fanwood, and who since leaving school, married and is the father of two promising youngsters, had a narrow escape from death or Sunday, January 7th. He is a compositor, and was requested to work on Sunday, as there was a rush order. The building was on fire, but Nathan who is deaf, and works on the top floor, did not know of it, and kept on working. He was among the last to be rescued by the firemen.

The Brownsville Silent Basketball team will meet the New Era Club (hearing team) in an exhibition game on Saturday evening, January 19th at 8:30, at the Commerce High School, 65th Street and Broadway, N. Y.

On January 7th last, Mrs. Charles Phillips gave birth to a son, which will be named Alvin Bernard. Both are doing very well.

In a former issue, it was printed that Mrs. Morrison had died. This was wrong. It was her mother, Mrs. Henrietta Kramer, who died of heart failure on Decembr 7th.

OHIO

News items for this column can be sent to B. M. Edgar, 56 Latta Avenue, Columbus, Ohio.

Miss Cloa G. Lamson entertained the Columbus O. W. L. members at her new home in Westerville, January 4th. All the members were present with the exception of Miss MacGregor, who was detained in Chicago by social engagements in her honor. Her two weeks there was a continual round of being entertained.

Mrs. C. W. Charles had charge of the birthday party for December at the Home and reports having had a delightful time. She had as her guest Mrs. E. I. Holycross, January 13th. Miss MacGregor will look after those whose birthdays come in January. These parties add much happiness to the residents.

Mrs. Brady Cook (Iva Lohr) was called to her old home in Madison County by the death of her mother, who passed away January 4th, after an illness of ten days. Mrs. Lohr was a well-known resident of that county, having been an active worker in church societies and the grange. Funeral services were held Monday and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Cook from Columbus, attended. Mrs. Lohr is survived by three sons and two daughters, a brother of Tennessee and a sister living in Georgia.

From the daily press we learned that Dr. J. W. Jones exchanged nine acres of his land north of the city for a business block and an apartment house in the east end of the city and some cash consideration, thus giving him some good rentable property.

January 14th, with much pomp and ceremony Ohio goes under a republican governor, after having had a democratic one for six years. The new governor, Mr. Myers Cooper, stands for educational advancement, adequate pay for teachers, the teachers' retirement system, and the restoration of the state library with its traveling library to all schools. He says "I will never veto a measure which has for its purpose the advancement of education for the youth."

Mr. J. B. Showalter returned the first of the month from his southern trip and the change in climate made him ill, but he is now better.

Mr. A. B. Greener celebrated his eightieth birthday, January 8th. While the day passed quietly for Mr. Greener, his daughter, Mrs. R. P. Thomas, was busy preparing a surprise for him in the evening. So quietly did she work, Mr. Greener suspected nothing. The mail brought him many greetings and well wishes from far and near. In the evening, friends began dropping in to congratulate him and then it came to him that he was the victim of a well-planned surprise. Most of the callers, men and women, handed him cigars, and it looks as if he now had enough smokes on hand to last him another eighty years.

Mr. and Mrs. James Park, of California, friends of fifty or more years, ordered flowers for his desk and sent a lovely letter of friendship and congratulations, from which we quote he follows:

"Eighty years filled with work for others, and now in the evening of life you can look back upon the years without regrets and forward to what lies before you with serene faith that all will be well."

The refreshments, fit to put before a king, consisted of chicken salad with four varieties of sandwiches, pickles, olives, nuts, candy and coffee or cocoa. Then to the surprise of Mr. Greener, an immense birthday cake adorned with "eighty" was set before him to eat. Later lighted candles in candlesticks were passed to all, and these proved to be the ice-cream to go with the cake. Some few appeared rather timid about starting to eat the candles at first, but upon finding they were really edible they soon broke into them. Altogether it was a most happy evening to Mr. Greener and his guests. Among some of the gifts was a fine fountain pen from his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, with whom Mr. Greener has a happy, congenial home, surrounded with every comfort and care.

Among those present were Dr. Robert Patterson (who observed his eightieth anniversary, December 11th), Mr. and Mrs. William Zorn, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Winemiller, Mr. and Mrs. H. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Wark, Mr. and A. Beckert, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Huffman, Mrs. Ella Zell, Mr. Ernest Zell, Miss Ethelburga Zell, Miss Cloa Lamson, Miss Bessie MacGregor, Miss Katherine Toskey, Mrs. C. W. Charles, Mrs. Leib, Miss E. Biggam, Misses Agnes and Bessie Edgar, Mrs. Lillian Mayer, Mr. and Mrs. A. Ohlemacher, Mr. Jacobson and Mr. Miller. Near the midnight hour all left, wishing A. B. G. many happy returns of the day. Mr. Greener does not show his age and appeared younger than ever. He is still very actively engaged in getting out the Ohio Chronicle.

BALTIMORE

The Watch Night entertainment tendered by Baltimore Division, No. 47, on Monday, December 31st, at Schanze Hall, was a wow of a success in every respect. The entertainment lasted three hours, with a fifteen minute intermission. For variety, novelty and color, that entertainment would be hard to beat and will be long remembered by the two hundred or more present. Those fraters certainly know how to put over an entertainment.

The program:

1. Greetings—President Stephen Sandbeck.
2. Introducing the newly elected president.
3. Punch and Judy Act—Mr. George M. Leitner.
4. A Two-Man Act—Mr. James Foxwell and Mr. Rozelle McCall.
5. Dance "The Highland-Fling"—Miss Mildred Russell.
6. Song, "The Bells"—Mrs. August Wriede.
7. Reading—Mr. Herbert Leitner.
8. Dance, "The Sailors Horn Pipe"—Miss Mildred Russell.
9. Movies of the First Outing at Fairview Beach and a comedy—in charge of Mr. Ray Kaufman.
10. Reading, "The Shah"—Mr. Harry Reamy.
11. Dance, "The Spanish Fandango"—Miss Mildred Russell.
12. Jokes—Mr. William Dilworth.
13. Comic Drawing—Mr. Thomas Moore.

The Punch and Judy Act manipulated by Mr. Leitner was great. It may interest those present to know that the puppets were hand-carved by Mr. Leitner. He also made the miniature theatre.

The three dances by Miss Russell were performed gracefully and were well received. This charming young lady is stone deaf, having attended the Maryland State School two years, and is now pursuing higher studies at Eastern High School. Miss Russell wore appropriate costumes for each dance.

Mr. Moore wore a "hick's" make-up and drew several caricatures of well known local frats. Before making his bow he surprised the audience when he took a large, live, white rat out of his coat pocket and put it on the floor. Being tame and trained the rodent stayed put, thus offering the ladies no opportunity to do a special jumping and climbing act.

It would take too much space to write about the whole program, suffice to say, each number was well received and helped to make the entertainment a pleasing success.

The guests were served coffee and crullers and lingered to greet the New Year.

The Silent Five of Flint, Mich., while on a Southern tour, stopped in Baltimore, Saturday, December 29th to play the Baltimore Silent Five at Hollins Hall. A hearing man from the Public Playground League officiated to the satisfaction of all. The long auto trip from Flint told on the Michigan boys and the Baltimore Five was way off form due to lack of practice. However, the game was interesting and closely fought. The Flint Silents won 35 to 21.

During December, Miss Mae Strandberg, of Minnesota, spent a few weeks in this city. The young lady made many friends here. She is now in New York City.

The Alumni Five meets the Maryland State School team in Frederick, on February 2d. Two big busses have been engaged to take the alumni team and rooters to Frederick. Much interest is being shown in the trip, which has been an annual affair for several years.

Since last August, Mr. Abe Stern has been working as a metal finisher with the Fisher Auto Body Co., in Flint, Mich. During Christmas week he came down to Baltimore for a few days' visit. Abe played center for the Flint Five against the Baltimore Silents, on which team he starred several years. Mr. Stern accompanied the Flint boys back to Michigan to resume work there.

The Brushwoods have sold their house in Aberdeen, Md., and are now living in Parkville, Md., near Hamilton. Mr. Brushwood explained the move was necessary to have their children nearer the Baltimore schools. Their daughter, Virginia, a student at the Maryland State School, had an attack of the "flu" and is now convalescing at home.

Rev. Koehler, retired missionary to the deaf of Pennsylvania, addressed a good-sized crowd at Grace and St. Peter's Church last Friday evening. In signs easily understood Rev. Koehler related numerous personal experiences encountered during his long length of service. The address was very interesting, amusing and in a way proved instructive.

Rev. Lorraine Tracy, of Washington, D. C., has been booked to give a lecture at morning, Star Hall, Saturday evening, January 19th. Rev. Tracy is well-known, is this city, and needs no introduction. If you missed Rev. Koehler's lecture, make up your mind to attend Rev. Tracy's lecture.

At the Frat Watch Night entertainment, we had the pleasure of meeting a good number of friends from Washington, D. C.—namely, Mr. and Mrs. Alley, Mr. and Mrs. Duval, Mr. and Mrs. Smoak, Mrs. Harrison, Mr. Bernsford, Mr. Amoss and Mrs. Hunter Edington. Mrs. Johnson came all the way down from Lynchburg, Va., to be with us.

In a letter to the writer, Superintendent Bjorlee, of the Maryland State School, said the report of the "flu" epidemic at the school was greatly exaggerated. There were about ten mild cases, all recovered in time to spend the holidays at home. The epidemic caused the school to close a few days earlier for the Christmas recess. The pupils returned to school on January 7th.

Mr. Rozelle McCall will soon be seen on the basketball courts, sporting the colors of the Baltimore Evening Sun. McCall is also a member of the Baltimore Silent Five.

Fighting under the colors of the local Y. M. C. A., Boniface Oviniski was awarded the decision over a heavier boxer in Washington, D. C., recently.

At the January meeting of Baltimore Division, No. 47, the following officers were installed: President, James Foxwell; Vice-President, Clyde Bowen; Secretary, Ray Kaufman; Treasurer, Adolph Bomhoff, re-elected; Trustees, William Dillworth and Roland Stultz; Sergeant-at-Arms, J. Coffey; Patriarch, Stephen Sandbeck.

Our division did not grow much during the last year, but 1929 promises to be a banner year. At the last meeting three new members were admitted—namely, Vincent Serio, Leo Deluca and Harry Friedman. We will hear of a few more soon.

While in Baltimore recently, Mr. Harry Benson, Instructor of Printing and Athletic Director at the Maryland State School, informed the writer that the basketball tournament of Eastern State Schools for Deaf will be held in Frederick, February 22d and 23d. Five schools will participate in the tourney, representing New Jersey, Virginia, Maryland, Connecticut and the Mt. Airy School.

Miss Elizabeth Moss, teacher at the South Carolina School for the Deaf, spent the Christmas holidays with her parents in Baltimore.

Rev. Daniel E. Moylan, pastor of Christ M. E. Church, and his wife, spent New Year's Day in Washington, D. C., with their daughter, Mabel. The church is now free of debt and owned by the deaf mission.

On December 31st, a bunch of Frederickians, accompanied Mr. Uriah Shockley on a motor trip to Washington, D. C., to attend the Flint Silents—Gallaudet College basketball game. Gallaudet proved too strong for the Flint and won by a big score.

Mr. John Pulski and Miss Anna Clayton were married at Loyola Church, on Sunday, December 30th, by Father Egan. By the way, Father Egan is well liked and is getting along fine with the Catholic deaf in this city.

Baltimore Division, No. 47, and Washington, D. C., Division, No. 46, are making plans for a joint affair, probably an outing to be held some time this summer. The job of putting it through is now in the hands of committees representing the two divisions. Details will be published after the committees meet to decide the location, date, etc.

Here's hoping it becomes an annual affair, as it probably will.

During Christmas week, Mr. Anderson was knocked down by an auto, just as he got off a trolley car, sustaining bruises on the leg and hands. The case has been placed in the hands of an attorney.

A week before Christmas the aged mother of Mrs. Alfred Feast succumbed from cancer.

The Baltimore American will again resume publication in tabloid form some time this month. The American was owned by Hearst up to a year ago, when it was sold and then ceased publication. The Baltimore Post, an afternoon tabloid, will soon make its appearance in regular newspaper form. A happy and prosperous New Year to you all.

THE WRIEDES.

NEW JERSEY

One hundred members and friends of St. Patrick's Society of the Deaf assembled in the spacious school auditorium on December 30th, and made merry at a Yuletide entertainment, provided by the group of Catholic deaf of New Jersey, in whom Rev. Monsignor Edward F. Quirk has taken a kindly interest. Unfortunately, Monsignor Quirk was called elsewhere on the afternoon of the festivities, much to the regret of the old and new friends who looked forward to meeting him.

As a prelude to the program, Mr. Pat Kelly, back in the early '70's, a star pupil of Hattie E. Hamilton and Prof. Currier, at Fanwood, welcomed the guests, and introduced President Clarence Schaumburg, who presided for the rest of the afternoon.

Incidental to the coming of old Kris Kringle, encouraging words were given the society and its efforts by James F. Donnelly, Arthur L. Thomas, Julius Kieckers and John F. O'Brien.

Prime perfectos were served to the men, with boxes of sweets to compensate the ladies, during the social converse that continued till past supper time.

Miss Patsy Schrader, as box office attendant, had a winsome smile for all. She remarked she wished the duties were an every day occurrence, as she might then be eligible for a post in the Newark National Bank. President Schaumburg radiated smiles all the afternoon, and conducted his office with dignity and tact.

Miss Seplin Meyer sat alongside her chum, Patsy Schrader, while she dispensed with admission tickets. Being a brunette and "Pat" a blonde, the contrast was striking.

Not content with his official duties as vice-president and Chairman of arrangements, Francis J. Maestro also essayed the role of Santa Claus.

St. Patrick's Society meets every third Sunday, and extends a welcome to all the New Jersey Catholic deaf to become members.
